About the Instructors

Dawn McKenney is an Occupational Safety Engineer with the Maine Department of Labor, SafetyWorks!. She has been with SafetyWorks! for 16 years and has been a consultant for 10 years. She conducts consultation evaluations for various employers, including boat building and marinas. She is an authorized training through the OSHA Training Center to provide General Industry and Construction 10 - and 30-hour courses.

Kerry Willett is an Occupational Safety Engineer with the Maine Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Standards (BLS). She received her certificate in OHST in 2000 from Central Maine Community College. She is a Certified OSHA Standards Trainer for General Industry, Construction, and Maritime. She has 9 years' experience as a Plant Safety Manager in a meat processing facility in Augusta Maine and 13.5 years as an OSE for BLS. Annually she attends OSHA professional development training in a variety of topics for the Maritime, Construction and General Industry trades.

Who Should Attend? Much of the information offered will be suitable for entry level employees. The class is also appropriate for supervisors, safety committee members or anyone in your organization who is concerned with workplace safety and health. And it's a great "refresher" for anyone who has taken this or other OSHA safety courses in the past.
